Os grandes chefes são como os grandes navegadores: devem ser constantemente intimidados de modo a esquecerem tudo o que aprenderam e, assim, tranquilamente, traçarem novas rotas. Depois, precisam novamente de apagar da memória o que sabem para prosseguirem o caminho.

Great Chefs are like great navigators: they must be constantly intimidated in order to forget what they have learned and then calmly discover new routes. Next, they must once again, erase from memory what they have learned to follow their path.

The Creator, when compelling Man to eat for survival, invites him with appetite and rewards him with pleasure.
